HAVE COURAGE TO SAY NO.

You're starting to-day on life's journey,
Alone on the highway of life;
You'll meet with a thousand temptations;
Each city with evil is rife.
This world is a stage of excitement,
There's danger wherever you go:
But if you are tempted in weakness,
Have courage, my boy, to say no.

The syren's sweet voice may allure you—
Beware of your cunning and art,
Whenever you see her approaching,
Be guarded, and haste to depart.
The billiard saloons are inviting,
Decked out in their tinsel and show;
You may be invited to enter;
Have courage, my boy, to say no.

The bright ruby wine may be offered—
No matter how tempting it be,
From poison that stings like an adder,
My boy, have courage to flee.
The gambling halls are below you,
Their lights how they dance two and fro!
If you should be tempted to enter,
Think twice, even thrice, ere you go.

In courage alone lies your safety,
When you the long journey begin,
And trust in a Heavenly Father,
Who will keep you unspotted from sin,
Temptations will go on increasing,
As streams from a rivulet flow;
But if you are true to your manhood,
Have courage, my boy to say no.

PARIS BY SUNLIGHT AND GAS-LIGHT.

A work descriptive of the Mysteries and Miseries, Virtues and Vices, Splendors, and Crimes of the City of Paris.—By James B. McCabe, Jr National Publishing Company, Cincinnati.

The eagerness with which all Americans who can spare the time and means, rush off to Paris every year, has become almost a national characteristic. Indeed, this is not to be wondered at, for of all places in the world Paris offers the greatest attractions to the lover of pleasure, and what people love pleasure as well as our own countrymen? This most interesting of cities displays to the novice its enchantments in two aspects so widely different, that the author shows us Paris in two different phases—By Sunlight and by Gaslight. The quantity of serious and veritable history presented by this work, as connected with the various objects of interest in Paris, is immense. That of the palaces and other public buildings is exhaustive and complete. The reader is made acquainted with all the proud triumphal monuments of the past and present eras. He is led through the grand galleries of art, and the history and descriptions of the leading objects of sculpture and painting are laid before him. He is introduced in to the family of the emperor, and carried through every phase of Parisian social life. He is led up to the garrets of the pretty Grisettes, and listens to the stories of their loves; and is made a confidant in the secret intrigues of the ladies of rank. He visits the queens of the demi-monde in their gorgeous houses, and counts their lovers by their jewels. He luxurates in the delicacies of French cooking and Parisian drinks, and smokes his cigarette at night on the glittering Boulevard. He has the curtain drawn back and is shown the dark mysteries, the rogueries, villainies, and the frightful crimes of the city. He is amused, instructed, startled, thrilled, horrified by turns, and when he lays the book aside, finds it hard to believe that he has not actually seen Paris for himself, and participated, in person, in the scenes of which he has been reading. The book is illustrated with 150 engravings, made in Paris, by the best artists of France, under the personal supervision of the author. It is sold only by subscription.

INDEPENDENT.

JERUSALEM IN THE FIRST CHRISTIAN CENTURY.

In the first century of the Christian era the civilized world rested in unexampled peace. It was the most tranquil period Europe has ever known. No general war disturbed the prosperity of Gaul, Italy, or the East; no wide spread revolution carried carnage and desolation to the populous provinces of imperial Rome, It was a golden, autumnal season of classic civilization, when the ripened fruits of long years of material and mental progress were showered upon mankind, and when the internal decay of the mighty empire was hidden in its exterior and splendid tranquillity. Compared with the later centuries the first was singularly frugal of human life. In the seventeenth century all Europe was torn by fierce religious wars, and men died by myriads to gratify the fanatical malice of kings and priests. In the eighteenth the obstinate vanity of a Louis, a Frederick, or a George III., covered land and sea with slaughter. In the dawn of the nineteenth, millions of the human race perished by the iron will of Napoleon; and the young generation of Europe and America have seldom known any long repose from the dreadful duties of the camp. But in the first century no battle of civilized men occurred equal in importance to Sadowa; no siege, except that of Jerusalem, as destructive as that of Sebastopol. Under its imperial masters, whether madmen, philosophers, or monsters, the Roman world almost forgot the art of warfare, and, weighed down by a general tyranny, gave itself languidly to the pursuits of peace.

A magnificent form of civilization at once grew up. Men everywhere clustered together in cities, and surrounded themselves with the countless appliances of a luxurious life. The theatre and amphitheatre, the aqueduct and bath, the graceful temples of yellow marble, the groves and gardens, the triumphal arches, the forums filled with statues and lined with colonades, were repeated in all those centres of artistic taste that sprung up, under the fostering care of successive emperors from the Cæsarea of Palestine to the distant wilds of Britain or Gaul. The Roman Empire embraced within its limits a chain of cities fairer than the proudest capitals of modern Europe—a throng of municipalities destined to become the future centres of Christian thought.

At the mouth of the venerable Nile stood Alexandria. Its population was nearly a million. It controlled the commerce of the world, and its vast fleets often covered the Mediterranean. It was the Paris of the east—gay, splendid, intellectual; its university and its library, its philosophers and critics, filled the age with active speculation. Antioch, on the Syrian shore, still retained its prosperity and its luxurious charms. In the midst of its apocalyptic sisters, Ephesus glittered with artistic decorations, and maintained in all their magnificence the Temple and the ritual of Diana. Greece boasted the corrupt elegance of Corinth, the higher taste incomparable Athens. Far to the west Carthage had risen from its ruins to new importance. Spain was adorned with the temples and the aqueducts of Saragossa and Cordova; the banks of the Rhine and the wilds of Gaul were sown with magnificent cities; and the camps of Britain swiftly grew into populous capitals and peaceful homes. In the midst of the series of provincial towns stood conquering Rome, the mistress of them all, slowly gathering within her bosom the wealth, the luxury, the corruption of the world.

But of all the imperial cities the most wonderful was still; Jerusalem. In a mysterious antiquity none of them could rival her. The towers of Salem had been contemporary with that of Belus or Semiramis, of the glory of Thebes and the youth of Memnon. Jerusalem had seen the splendors of her conquerors of Babylon and Egypt sink into decay. A thousand years had passed since David founded the city of Mount Zion, and still, in the first century, with a singular vitality, the holy site was covered with magnificent buildings, and a new temple had risen on Mount Moriah, to surpass the glory of that of Solomon. When the seven hills of Rome had been a desolate waste, and the Acropolis the retreat of shepherds—when all Europe was a wilderness, and savage hunters roamed over the site of its fairest cities, Jerusalem had shone over the east a beacon of light, and had observed, and, perhaps, guided the progress of Italy and Greece. She had often been conquered, but never subdued. More than once leveled to the ground, she had risen from her ashes. For a thousand years the priests had chanted the Psalms of David from Mount Moriah, unless in captivity or exile, and still the Jerusalem of Herod and Nero was, in her magnificent ritual and her sacred pomp, the rival and the peer of Athens and Rome.

In the minds of her contemporaries the Jewish capital seems to have excited an intense dislike. The Jews were noted for their bigotry and their national pride. Even in their captivity they despised their conquerors; they turned with contempt from the polished Greeks and Romans, and refused to mingle with them as equals or as friends. To the austere Pharisee a Cicero or an Atticus was a pariah and an outcast, and the chosen people, as far as possible, shrank from the unholy society of the Gentile. But this exclusiveness seemed to their cultivated contemporaries barbarous and rude; they repaid it by a shower of ridicule and sarcasm. The Roman satirist accused them of worshiping the empty air or the passing cloud; the people of Rome, of adoring the vilest animals; and no author of that intellectual age had discovered that the lyrics of the Jewish king were more sublime than those of Pindar; that the conflicts and the trials of a human soul were nobler themes than the Olympic sports or the triumphs of Hiero. No Roman writer had studied with care the Jewish scriptures, or had contrasted the sibylline oracles with the prophecies of Isaiah.

Yet even to the Greeks and Romans a mysterious awe invested the holy city. They heard with wonder of that inner shrine where no image of a deity was seen, but within which no profane eye was allowed to gaze; of the golden candlestick, the priceless veil; of the pompous worship of an invisible God. They knew that to the austere Jew the fairest statues of Phidias, the most glorious representations of Jupiter and Apollo, were only an abomination. They had learned that the despised Israelites were looking forward to the advent of a prophetic Messiah whose reign should be universal, and who should subject all nations to his sway; and emperors and kings had been startled and roused to cruelty by their unflinching faith. But no heathen writer could have supposed that the promised Messiah was to be a God of boundless love; that from the heart of the abject and hated race was to come forth a generous sympathy for the suffering and the sad of every land; that from mysterious Jerusalem was to descend upon the world a faith that taught the common brotherhood of man, a charity as limitless as its celestial source.—From "The Church of Jerusalem," by EUGENE LAWRENCE, in Harper's Magazine for May.

DERAILMENT OF RAILWAY TRAINS.

There have been many instances in which trains have left the line without, apparently, any sufficient reason, and it is of this class of railway accidents that we wish to speak here. And, first, as to the ordinary causes. These are:—Weak or uneven permanent way, bad joints, wheels with flanges worn to a sharp edge on the outer side, and curves worked by engines or vehicles unfitted to pass around them. Where any of these causes exist there is no difficulty in accounting for a case of derailment; but when none of these are present—when the permanent way and wheels are in good order, the speed of the train not excessive, and when the accident does not occur on a curve—we have to search for the causes which give rise to the mishap. When a train is running at a fair speed on an ordinary line of railway, the rails receive a succession of lateral blows from the wheel flanges, these blows—which are more or less severe according to the state of road and the construction of the rolling stock—being nothing but a series of endeavors on the part of the train to 'run off.' Now, supposing the tires and permanent way to be in good order, and the line to be straight, 'running off' can only occur when the force with which any wheel flange strikes the rail laterally is sufficient to cause that flange to act as a kind of inclined plane, lifting the weight resting on that wheel and thus causing 'mounting.' It may at at first sight appear that, considering the forms of tire and rail section in ordinary use, no amount of lateral force which is likely to be available would suffice to cause the lifting of the weight upon the wheel in the manner we have just mentioned; but a little further investigation of the case will show that the possibility of such an action certainly exists. Let iron templates of ordinary tire and rail sections be taken and placed together in the manner in which a wheel bears upon a rail, and let a pressure be then applied to the inner edge of the tire template, when it will be seen that the latter can be readily made to rise from its bearing upon the rail. In the case of an ordinary engine or carriage, this mounting under the influence of lateral pressure is prevented by the weight insistent upon the wheel, and we thus see that in the steady maintenance of this weight lies one of the principal safeguards against derailment.

This brings us to the question as to how much the insistent weight upon the wheels of an engine or carriage varies when running at moderately high speeds; and this is a question to which no precise answer can be given. That the load on the wheels does vary—and vary considerably too—is clearly shown by the play of the springs; but the degree of maximum variation depends so greatly upon the construction of the rolling stock, the manner in which it is loaded, and the state of the permanent way, that not even a general statement of its amount can be given. That, however, this variation is in many cases very far greater than is usually supposed, is proved by some interesting experiments on the subject which have been made by M. de Weber, of the State Railway of Saxony. These experiments, which have been made, by the aid of suitable arrangements, on six-wheeled engines having, we believe, all the axles under the barrel of the boiler, show very startling results. They show that in the case of trailing wheels carrying a normal load of 5¾ tuns each, the load when running varied from 10 tuns down to 1½ tuns; while in the case of leading wheels having each a normal load of 3½ tuns, the load when running varied from 8 tuns down to zero! Now, although we should hope that such an occurrence as the total removal of the load from one of the leading wheels of the engine is an exceptional one, yet the fact that it occurred during M. de Weber's experiments proves that is likely to occur again under certain conditions; and it is certainly more than probable that it this removal of the load took place simultaneously with a severe lateral blow of the flange of the wheel against the rail, "running off" would be the result. M. de Weber's experiments, in fact, go to show that most of the "mysterious" derailments which have occurred have been due to this simultaneous occurrence of a severe lateral pressure, and an upward oscillation of the load on the springs of the particular wheel which has mounted, this action being in many instances further assisted by one of which we shall now proceed to speak.

In addition to his experiments on the variation of load on wheels of engines when running, M. de Weber has made a number of others on the lateral stability of permanent way, and although these experiments were carried out on the somewhat light rails of the state railway of Saxony, the results obtained possess considerable interest. When a line of rails is subjected to a lateral pressure, applied to the side of the head of the rail at any one point, it may yield by the flexure of the rail on its base, or by the direct movement of the sleepers on the ballast; and as far as the two last mentioned causes are concerned, it will be found that the amount of yielding which will take place will be greatly modified according to the load which the rail is carrying at the time when lateral pressure is applied. Thus, M. de Weber found that the resistance of the sleepers to lateral movements on the ballast was increased tenfold, as compared with the same line unloaded, by the imposition of a load of 28 tuns; while in the case of the Vignoles rails, on which the experiments were tried, a force of 2¾ tuns, which produced an enlargement of the gauge to the extent of 1 4-5 inches when the line was unloaded, produced a spreading of but 1-6 inch only when the rails were carrying a load of 11 tuns on a pair of wheels. These results show that the relieving of the wheels of weight by the vertical oscillations not only facilitates mounting, but also diminishes the lateral resistance of the rais to a spreading of the gauge, and it thus tends to produce derailment in two ways. M. de Weber's experiments thus go very far to explain the cases of 'running off' which are not accounted for by ordinary causes, and we should be glad to see them followed up by similar experiments on the engines and forms of permanent ways in general use in this country.—Engineering.

THE COUNTRY STORE.

Away from the cities the whole range of lesser everyday wants turns for fulfillment to the country store. And so it becomes a clustering point for all of village life.

There is no limit to its possibilities. If Aunt Eunice wants anything, from a wash-tub to an ounce of paregoric, she knows where to find it; but when she broke her only pair of spectacles, the other day she came to us in doubt.

'You keep 'most everything,' she said, hopefully.

'Yes, I know, but we don't sell spectacles. People are so different you see. But there are a pair or two about here, if they will do you any good.'

These had come to us from some auction or other, where were congregated the quaint and useless relics of many a previous sale—relics that are still destined. I doubt not, for further kicks akown the vales of time by auctioneers yet unborn. I have them before me now—stout rimmed, cumbrous, brassy—staring owl like at me, as if from out the deepening twilight of the past; the glasses so scratched and dim with use and age that it is easy to imagine that within their misty lenses lingers the remembrance of many a vanished scene, and that they feebly attempt, as I place them astride of my nose, to twist the familiar things at which I look into an antique picture which shall be in keeping with their own venerable aspect.

But they are spectacles. A rare spectacle, too, was the good woman's face as she held them afar, that she might better inspect them with her crippled eyes.

'Goodness! Did you ever! How could people ever wear such things as these? I hope you don't ever expect to sell 'em?'

But thus hapily were the resources of our establishment vindicated; tho' really less ready we than that other shop keeper of these parts, who laid a wager he could fill any single demand, and triumphanily produced a second-hand pulpit which was called for.

Such enterprising spirits are not narrowed by any study of the known laws of supply and demand. Within the precincts over which I have been called to exercise a temporary charge are gathered many things that have long failed to excite the appreciation of our plain country folks—patent medicines, powders and unguents, of happiest efficacy and illimitable range of cure, polishing powders, enough to burnish the world until it should shine like another sun, preparations and contrivances needing a second inventor to discover a use for them or to tell their efficiency—and which are here awaiting in dingy and fly specked state that happy millennial time which shall find for all inexplicable things a full and legitimate use.

The country storekeeper is in some sort a public character. He finds himself used in a dozen different ways—as banker, oracle, referee, newspaper, directory, intelligence man, etc.—almost before he is aware. Gossip and small talk he should retail with the same graceful alacrity with which he dispenses maccaboy and peppermint drops. Thoroughly democratic as an institution, the store recognizes no caste, and its door swings freely open to all who come, whatever be their errands. An inviting haunt for all the idle ones among us, its fireside on stormy or impracticable days draws together its little circle, that is ever shifting its character and its subjects as different persons come and go.—Harper's Magazine.

A PEN PICTURE OF THE PRESIDENT.

BY GRACE GREENWOOD.

Though so qtiet and undemonstrative, president Grant's manner is not cold. Though somewhat set and quite reticent in expression, his face is neither hard or forbidding. Though his eyes are of greyish blue certainly do not radiate geniality and good fellowship, I have always seen in them a still and steady friendship—impartial, almost undiscriminating, but singularly unforgetful. His look into your eyes on a first meeting, is clear, direct, but not piercing. He makes no deep scrutiny into your character, but you feel that he reads you well, as far as he goes, and you may be sure he will know you the next time. His words are few, as he has occasionally remarked, and his dress simplicity itself. Some one once called it a courageous simplicity. I don't think the term suited to him; it implies too much consciousness. Franklin's appearance at the court of Versailles was courageous simplicity. Jefferson's riding on horseback from the White House to the Capitol was dramatic simplicity. But Grant gives no thought to effect—makes no parade of not making a parade. In walking he carries his head—that wonderfully compact, evenly modeled head—slightly forward; and as he has in public places an absent yet acquiescent air, as one being taken somewhere rather than going of his own volition—which is usually the case, as he is the most obliging, informal and unmagisterial of Chief Magistrates. To me there is something strange in the ordinary passivity of such a will as his. He seems not only a modest but a diffident man. Great heroes before him have been so. This difference may often be taken for indifference and insensibility. I think I have seen the sure marks of it in his intercourse with children, for whom he really has the fondness characteristic of Mr. Lincoln. He has no small talk for small interviewers, but he is not above listening to them, and I have noticed that they never account him hard or cold. They have perhaps the instinct to understand and the grace to interpret that riddle for statesmen, reporters and fine ladies—the face of president Grant.

A few evenings ago, as a little party of us assembled to witness some private theatricals of the simplest and most juvenile sort, at the house of one of the cabinet ministers, the family from the White House called quite unexpectedly. On being told what was on the tapis, the president expressed a desire to see the performance if the children did not object. Of course they did not, though quaking in their buskins, but they did their poor best before their august audience, and were rewarded by presidential applause and laughter. Watching our president as he sat smiling kindly at that little comedy, that quaint bit of childish life it seemed almost impossible that he was indeed the great captain of captains, who a few short years ago, was the central figure in a mighty drama of battle, whose stage was a continent, and whose audience was the world. I think we ought to strive to realize this more; it seems to me there is too much petty cavil at this man's non-observance of some of the small conventionalities which we call the etiquette of the position; too many newspaper platitudes that he enjoys his cigar, that he loves his horses (bless him for that!), that he does not make speeches on all trival occasions (bless him for that, too!), in short that he does not to the deportment of his place according to aristocratic democratic theories, that he is not the president of precedent.

"We had eyes and chose him."

Let us remember that God gives to one soul a genius to think and to aspire; to another to do and to be. There is the inspired prophet brain, which says, "I see—I believe,"—and there is the imperial, compulsive brain, which says "I am—I will!" Who shall say which is the greater? Each by a divine law, ancient as time, gravitates to its fit period and place. Because the night of tribulation is past, do not let us cease to thank God for the strong hand which upheld and guided us through its heaviest darkness; above all, let us not quarrel with that hand, if it takes not kindly to Paris kids, or if the grip it learned upon the sword hilt, sometimes makes slippery, self seeking, political fingers tingle.

SELECTIONS FOR A NEWSPAPER.

Most people think that the selections of suitable matter for a newspaper the easiest part of the business. How great an error. To look over and over fifty exchange papers daily, from which to select enough for one especially when the question is not what shall, but what shall not, be selected, is no very easy task. If every person who reads a newspaper could have edited it, we should have less complaining. Not unfrequently it is the case that an editor looks over all his exchange papers for something interesting and can find absolutely nothing.

Every paper is drier than a contribution box, and yet something must be had—his paper must be out with something in it, and he does the best he can. To an editor who has the least care in what he selects, the writing he has to do is the easiest part of his labor. Every subscriber thinks the paper is printed for his own benefit, and if there is nothing that suits him, it must be stopped—it is good for nothing. As many subscribers as an editor has, so many tastes he has to to consult.

One wants something very smart and something sound. One likes anecdotes, fun and frolic, and the next door neighbor wonders that a man of sense will put such stuff in his paper. Something spicy comes out the editor is a blackguard. Next comes something argumentative, and the editor is a dull fool. And so, between them all, the poor fellow gets the devil. They never reflect that what does not please them will please the next man; but they insist that if the paper does not suit them it is good for nothing, and will stop it right off.

JOSH BILLINGS INSURES HIS LIFE.

I kum to the conclusion, lately, that life was so onsartin, that the only way for me tu stand a fair chance with other folks was tu get my life insured, and so I called on the agent of the Garden Angel Life Insurance Co., and answered the following questions which was put tu me over the top ov a pair of goold specks, by a slick little fat old feller, with a round gray head, and az pretty a little belly on him az enny man ever owned:

1st. Are you male or female? if so pleze state how long you have been so.

2d. Are yu subject to fits, and if so du you have more than one at a time?

3d. What is your precise fitein weight?

4th. Did yu ever have enny ancestors, and if so, how many, and of wnat sex?

5th. What is your legal opinion of the constitutionality ov the 10 commandments?

6th. Do you ever have enny nightmares?

7th. Are yon married or single, or are you a bachelor?

8th. Du yu believe in a future state? if yu du, state it.

9th. What are yure private sentiments about a rush ov rats tu the head; can it be did successfully?

10th. Have yu ever committed suicide, and if so, how did it seem to effect yu?

After answering the above questions, like a man in the confirmatif the slik little man with the goold specks on, eed I was insured for life, and probably would remain so for a term of years. I thanked him, and smiled one of my most pensive smiles.

Massillon, Wednesday, April 27.

"CAN IT BE TRUE?"—it is clearly charged in one of our exchanges that on the night of the adjournment of the legislature at Columbus, which was on Saturday night, the 16th, or rather on Sunday morning the 17th inst., that quite a number of the members were on a drunk. The consequence was, that disorder and confusion prevailed, while business interests suffered and the good name of the state was brought into reproach. If those who favor a political temperance party—and there are not a few such, and their numbers are increasing—wanted a strong argument in favor of their measures here is one, in this legislative carousal, which is too formidable to overcome. Without inquiring into particulars as to who was guilty of this drunkenness and indiscretion, we may safely assume that no representatives of Stark added to this state of disreputable affairs.

A mass convention of those favoring woman's suffrage is held in Dayton, commencing to-day, and continuing to-morrow. A number of leading women in this movement are to be present. A general attendance, whether of friends or opponents of the cause, is invited.

From what the papers say the Canadians are on a big scare. A strong and growing party, so represented, in favor of annexation, is busily at work. The French are said to favor the movement, and the Fenians are slyly at work raising ned generally. What the result may be it is difficult to foresee, but with all this compounding of troubles it seems clear that the simple question of annexation is one which is daily becoming more and more inevitable.

The Ohio legislature did a good thing before its adjournment, and that is, it repealed that miserable abortion of a law called the visible admixture bill, which tried to make it criminal for a man who was suspected of having a certain degree of African blood in his veins to exercise the freeman's right to vote. So far as its observance was concerned the law was generally regarded as a dead letter, and to destroy it was like killing some dead thing, which even in its life "smelt a smell" of meanness.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company invited all the members of the Ohio legislature to take a free ride over their road, to Washington city and back, after their adjournment. The liberal offer was accepted, and we hope the members had a safe and pleasant trip.

Congress is making haste slowly, as all reports concur in saying that very little business is being done by that body. That is generally the case where so large a number of men have to talk over and compare views before ariving at some definite conclusion. It is one of the disadvantages, if we may call it such, of our form of government, but we are not wilhing to trade this form off for imperial or kingly rule.

Below are expressions of gratitude by our colored people for the sympathy which many not of their complection evinced in their behalf by participating in their rejoicings They appreciate and esteem such manifestations of friendship in a measure which language cannot express.

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be and they are hereby tendered to Capt. R. B. Crawford, Marshal of the day, and his corps of assistants, for his and their kindness and assistance in conducting the procession, and other matters connected with the celebration.

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be tendered to Prof Ickes and his choir, for the assistance they have rendered to this celebration in furnishing music.

Massillon, April 20th, 1870. }

At a regular assembly of Hart Encampment, Post No. 2, G. A. R., the following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, In producing the military alegory entitled the Union Spy, the services of a great many ladies, also several gentlemen not members of this post was necessary.

WHEREAS, We, the members of said Post, do therefore Resolve, That the thanks of this Post be tendered to the ladies and gentlemen, one and all, who so kindly assisted in the production of the Union Spy. We also return thanks to the Silver Cornet Band who volunteered their services, and to Mr. O. G. Madison for use of band wagon. We return thanks also to the citizens generally who so liberally patronized and manifested their good feeling toward us.

GOLDEN WEDDING ON TREMONT STREET.

The good people on Tremont street and the region round about had the benefit of a sensation on Wednesday evening in the way of a golden wedding at the residence of our esteemed friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Jacoby. They celebrated their golden wedding, in a manner fully suited to the occasion. They were surrounded by old friends who congratulated them heartily and to whom they dispensed the luxuries of the land with unbounded generosity.

Our reporter furnishes the names of some of the oldest of our citizens who were there, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Folger, Col. and Mrs. T. S. Webb, Mrs. D. Barach, Mr. and Mrs. James Bayliss, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Clay and we suppose we ought to include Mr. and Mrs. Clement as old citizens if not old folks. The occasion was so pleasant that when we read our reporter's notes we felt very much like trying our hand at an epithalamium, but we found it difficult with "a head silvered o'er with age" to write anything of the sort, and as we sat musing on the events of the past half century, we were reminded of the following lines written by somebody else:

"If you would have me sing and play
As once I played and sung,
First take this time worn lute away
And bring one newly strung."

And then we remembered that we were writing of the old inhabitants, those who for long years had wrestled with life's vicissitudes, and who like ourselves are going down life's slope and mayhap nearly to the bottom.

To get back to the golden wedding; it was grand, it was sufficient for the nonce to wake our friends, who for fifty long years have "climbed life's hill together" feel that they were rejuvenated and instead of being near the close was just commencing the battle of life.

By 9½ o'clock the guests had all arrived and the parlors being well filled Mr. Folger, according to a previous arrangement asked that there might be silence as Mr. Jones, superintendent of schools in this city would read a paper that had been prepared for the occasion. As soon as quiet could be obtained Professor Jones read the following paper which speaks so well for itself that we give it to our readers entire:

As we are assembled on this twentieth day of April 1870, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of our wedding day, the 'Golden Wedding' as it is generally called, it may be appropriate to give a short history of our parentage, marriage and success in life.

We were both born in Cumberland Co. Pa., I, in the 1797, and my companion in the year 1800.

Our families together emigrated to this state in 1812; and after a few year of hardships and trials of a new country in the "far west" so called then, after earnest consultation, we agreed to enter into a life partnership. This arrangement was consummated on the twentieth day of April 1820, and she that was Catherine Bahney, has since been my faithful companion in all life's duties and changes.

We commenced our married life in this county on a farm, and remained there until the last fifteen years, when I sold my farm and removed to Massillon and we expect to remain here until death.

As regards our family, we have had eight children. One, our eldest daughter, has gone to her long resting place. Three sons and four daughters are yet living. All are married and have families. We have had twenty four grandchildren, of whom nineteen are now living. One of them is married and we have one great grand child.

Including ourselves, our children and their partners, grandchildren and great grandchild, our family has numbered forty-four, of whom thirty seven are living.

It is gratifying to us to know that our children are earnestly striving to be worthy men and women, and that our grandchildren are endeavoring to walk in the path of duty and rectitude. It is our sincere prayer that they may be all enabled to perform life's journey ever faithful to the responsibilities resting upon them.

Through many years of alternations of joy and sorrow, faith in the unchangeable goodness of God, has been a source of comfort and consolation to us. It has added to our happiness in prosperity, and in adversity and bereavment it has sustained and blessed us.

Fifty years of changes have passed away since we began our married life. Here to day, surrounded by children and grandchildren, it is gratifying to know that nearly all who are sufficiently old, rejoice in the same religious faith that has so comforted and blessed us. Our earnest desire is that they may adorn their profession with well ordered lives and Godly conversation. May God bless all of those who have favored us with their presence this evening, and may they be blessed with long lives and prosperity, and many of them live to celebrate their "Golden Wedding" day.

The reading being concluded, Rev. Mr. Timlow delivered a brief address and prayer of surpassing beauty, after which refreshments were served in great abundance and excellency, and with blessings and adieus the company retired every one feeling that the evening had been happily and profitably spent. All of the living children, excepting one daughter were present. One son and daughter-in-law in order to be sure to get here drifted with their trunk in an open skiff down the Mississippi two hundred miles and succeeded in getting here in time for the festival.

Massillon, celebrated though it be for the pleasantness of its social gatherings has none that can take the precedence of Mr. and Mrs. Jacoby's golden wedding.

Mr. Estep will return in a few days with a new stock of dry goods.

PLANTATION BITTERS
S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. For sale by druggists. 6m-349

The Great Medical Discovery!
Dr. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA
VINEGAR BITTERS.

More than 500,000 persons bear testimony to their curative effects.

For Female Complaints, whether in old or young, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these tonic bitters have no equal. Send for a circular.

What are They?

They are a gentle purgative as well as a tonic, possessing also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving congestion or inflammation of the liver, and all the Visceral Organs.

THEY ARE NOT A
VILE FANCY DRINK,

Made of poor rum, whisky, proof spirits, and refuse liquor, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called tonics, appetizers, restorers, &c., that lead the unwary on to drunkeness and ruin, but are a true medicine, made from the native roots and herbs of California, free from all alcoholic stimulants.

They are the great blood purifier and life giving principle, a perfect renovater and invigorator of the system, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For inflamatory and chronic rheumatism, and gout, dyspepsia, or indigestion, bilious, remittent, and intermittent fevers, disease of the blood, liver, kidneys and bladder, these bitters have been most successful. Such diseases are caused by vitiated blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the digestive organs.

Cleanse and vitiate blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, eruptions or sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when you find it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

Pin, tape, and other worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

In bilious, remittent and intermittent fevers, these bitters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

CAHOON'S
Patent Broadcast Seed Sower,
FOR SOWING
Wheat, Oats, Hemp, Barley, Rye, Buckwhea Grass Seed, Rice Flax, &c.

The Hand Machine Costs only $10.

And sows from four to eight acres per hour at a common walking gait, throwing out wheat about forty feet wide.

The Horse Power Machine Costs Only $50

And at the usual walking gait of a horse, sows from ten to fifteen acres per hour By changing the discharger this machine sows Guano, Plaster, Lime, &c.

The hand machine, at a common walking gait, sows from four to eight acres per hour. The acknowledged superiority of these machines over all others has already placed them in the front rank of labor saving agricultural implements. A saving of four fifths of the labor, and one third of the seed used in hand sowing, is effected by using these machines. A person entirely unused to sowing by hand can use either machine with perfect success.

They are warranted to give perfect satisfaction, and to save their cost in less time than any farm implement yet introduced. They are substantially built, and with ordinary care will last many years.

D.ª H. GOODELL & CO.,
SOLE MANUFACTURERS.
Antrim, New Hampshire.

The unprecedented success of this Seeder the past year is without parallel in the history of agricultural implements. It has probably received more first premiums at large fairs in the year 1869, than was ever awarded to any other machine, of any name or nature in one year.

It received the first premium at the great fair held at St. Louis, and at the New England fair held at Portland, Maine, and at the New York, Maryland, North Carolina, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Mississippi, and California State Fairs, and at multitudes of smaller fairs all over the country.

We warrant the hand machine to sow Fifty Acres of Wheat in Ten Hours, and the horse power machine to sow One Hundred and Twenty Acres in the same time, and the work to be done with greater precision and accuracy than can be done by agy other means whatever.

We might append hundreds of certificates, speaking its praise in the highest terms.

DR. C. W. ROBACK,

Dear Sir:—Permit me to say in relation to your Scandinavian Blood Pills and Blood Purifier, that I have used several boxes and bottles, and have found their effects on my system to be all that is claimed for them in your advertisements. I have also seen the effects of your Pills upon a child four or five years old, in expelling worms from the bowels.—One dose given the child, confined to the bed, and apparently very sick, caused the worms to come away from it in great numbers, and they were found crawling and scattered all about. The child thus relieved recovered immediately, and is now well and hearty.

Yours, &c.

Monday is a day which will long be remembered by a portion of our population, as it was the day set apart by our colored citizens and those who sympathised with them, to celebrate the ratification and establishment of the fifteenth amendment. The morning looked very unpromising, as the sky was overcast with clouds, and at intervals a drizzling, cold rain fell. Toward noon, however, the sun gave tokens that he was about to shine upon our doings, and so it proved to be a most beautiful time for the rejoicing in which all were interested, either as participants or spectators.

What added to the perplexities of the morning was that Mr. Remond, the principal speaker of the day, had not arrived, as was hoped and expected, but a dispatch was received that he would be here on the 12-40 train. So no procession was formed in the forenoon, as was previously arranged, nor was any speaking had at the Opera House. In the afternoon, however, vast numbers of people being on the streets, a procession was organized near the American House, under direction of R. B. Crawford, as chief marshal, who was very efficient in his services, which was preceded by the Silver Cornet Band. The procession was marched through a number of the principal streets, and halted at the Opera House, and when those forming the procession entered the large hall they were surprised to find it already filled with people. In the meantime Mr. Remond arrived, and when the meeting was organized, Wm. Winn presiding, the speaker was introduced to the audience, when he proceeded to the performance of the duties assigned him. We have heard him before, but never did he seem to give such universal satisfaction as on this grand occasion. He addressed himself to things as they are, taking inspiration from his surroundings; and his arguments and appeals were frequently responded to with hearty applause. He was briefly followed by Judge Underhill, who uttered home truths which all must know to be such. Mr. Folger read a number of letters from distinguished statesmen, all expressing the warmest sympathy in the demonstration. But is impossible to give such particulars as we wish at present—we hope to do so next week.

It is reported on what is called good authority that the terrible fire at Medina the other day was the result of drunken carelessness. This thing of drinking until the drunk comes is often found very expensive.

The railroad question still continues to interest our Canton neighbors, and many other localities, and they are taking active measures, in these places, to be on the line of a through route which shall be independent of the present gigantic railroad enterprises, whether the Pennsylvania Central, or Atlantic and Great Western, or any other of like character. To work hard is the way to secure such favors, and if earnestness brings success our Canton neighbors are bound to merit it. But Akron and Salem are also at work somewhat in competition with Canton to secure the same favors. Time will tell who wins.

Some of the papers are making remarks not exactly favorable to Mr. Ramsdell, the great oats man, seeming to think that he can't fulfill all his promises. He gives, in response, the most solemn assurances that he will live up to his promises, and there need be no fear of a failure. Mr. Schilling, of Salem, a man of unsurpassed business qualifications and unfailing integrity, is the agent for this grain in this part of the country, and if there was anything unfair about the business he would not have gone into it.

On Saturday last a gentleman was exhibiting the motions of a reaping machine on our streets which seemed to secure considerable attention.

Dress goods in great variety just received at Ricks' to which we call the particular attention of the ladies. We will be glad to show the goods.

Good order generally marked the doings of Monday, and no disturbance of any note occurred to mar the harmony of the proceedings. The colored people indulged in a ball in McLain's Hall, in the evening which they enjoyed till a late hour.

Mr. Remond made a brief and impressive speech in the evening, in Madison Hall, in the same strain in which he spoke in the afternoon.

The Opera Hall was filled to overflowing on Monday evening, all the seats being filled to witness the popular drama, Uncle Tom's Cabin, by Hardy & Wilson's troupe. Topsy was superbly done by little Nellie, while the other characters were finely rendered. The prim Miss Ophelia was presented in a manner scarce to be excelled anywhere, and the meek Uncle Tom uttered many admirable admonitions to those with whom he was in contact.

Mr. Wm. Moore, of New Lisbon, died the other day aged 93 years. He has for many years been claimed to be the oldest freemason in the United States. Mr. M. was a genial, intelligent man, and made himself agreeable wherever he met with friends.

As the democrats can no longer keep the colored man down because he is a voter, they are trying their bungling arts at ridicule. That is something like the fellow who said that if he could not lick an opponent of his he could make faces at his sister.

Mr. Wilson, one of the jovial good fellows, takes a benefit this evening at the Opera House. Let the lovers of such entertainments turn out in force and make this benefit one which the recipient will long remember with favor.

Tuesday morning this place was visited by a very large, and clear white frost, without a speck of visible admixture.

Mr. Fassett, the music man at the opera house, has quit the business here.

The loss sustained by the citizens of Medina by the recent calamituous fire is put at some $200,000. As many of these losses come upon comparatively poor people, it has been suggested that contributions be raised to aid such as may need it.

Bro' McKee is stirring up the Alliance council about the temporary manner of fixing up the streets at big expense and little profit. Like a sensible man he suggests that the work be done right at first, and it will be money well invested. Well, Alliance does need street improvements badly, especially when the season of mud comes on. And they have a premium article in that line there which for adhesiveness is almost as good as shoemakers, wax, for "it sticketh closer nor a brother."

Gone for goods—Wm. Humberger of the firm of Humberger & son.

If those editors who are all the time trying to say some excruciating things about woman's rights, and attempting to ridicule such distinguished advocates of this movement as Miss Dickinson, Miss Anthony and many others, knew how little they are heeded they would be apt to dry up their gushing fountains of still born satire. Their eloquence in this direction is wasted about as much as that of a spring pup's barking at the moon.

Will Humberger started last last week and you may soon expect to see a nice stock of goods opened on the corner.

One day last week Mr. Solomen Crider had a cow killed on the railroad, somewhere below the crossing at Main street.

Two or three weeks ago a man professing to be the owner of a farm not far from the Ohio river, in Columbiana county, sold the same to Thomas McCoy, a banker, of New Lisbon, and received some $5,000 or $6,000 in money. Mr. M. soon found out that he was swindled, the man (Smith) never having been in possession of the farm, or if he ever had been forfeited all claim thereto. A reward of $500 was offered for the swindler, —he was arrested in West Virginia, and now bids fair to go on a protracted mission to Columbus. He may realize that honesty is the best policy.

The serene and warm weather of Saturday brought a good many people to town, and it was a good day for business.

The circus business has already commenced for the season, as we see that Gardner & Forepaugh are liberally putting forth their advertisements in the papers. We may look out for a visit from some of these shows soon.

As our people are favored with the presence of one of the largest and best finished halls in this part of the country, it is desirable that some first class lecturer come along, or be invited to come, and occupy it with something of an intellectual character. Since its completion the hall has had a pretty fair patronage of shows of various kinds, now it is time to have some good lecturing done. And where are those bands of singers who used to favor us with their visits? We have a hall worthy of the best of them—come and see if this is not so.

The new postage stamps are out with some decided improvements in colors and devices. The trouble with many is to get other stamps with which to purchase these nice new pictures.

HARDY & WILSON'S TROUPE.—This company came here and opened out on Monday night of last week, but as the day and evening were rainy and stormy a small attendance was present, but those who were present were well pleased with the play. About the same state of affairs followed on Tuesday evening, yet the acting was satisfactory to the visitors. The weather cleared up and that improved the house in numbers on Wednesday evening. Little Nellie, a special favorite here, was announced for Thursday day evening, and this greatly augmented the number of visitors. Friday and Saturday evenings the same little personage attracted pretty fair audiences, for she has lots of friends here. For want of time, we suppose, sometimes she has to speak with great rapidity, which makes it difficult for many in the remote parts of the hall to fully understand what she says, though her pronunciation is remarkably clear, and her voice fills the house with ease. One gentleman says all the men fall in love with Little Nellie, wherever she goes—cause why she is the quintessence of imitation, life, fun, and all those qualities which go to make a success on the stage. There are also other actors in this troupe of excellent ability, who perform their parts well, so far as we are able to judge, and frequently elicit the warmest and loudest applause. In impressive parts Mr. Johnson is excelled by few—his personations of character in Ireland as it was, seemed to us to be perfect.

Dr. Baird, formerly a minister of the M. E. church, but on account of failing health retired from the service, some time ago took up his residence at Salem, where he is engaged in the mercantile business. Recently he has taken charge of the Salem Journal, as editor, and is a very competent man for the place. Of course he is all right on the temperance question. Then there is Mrs. Brown of Alliance, editor of the Monitor, who is one of the leading friends of the temperance cause in this region. The truth is along the line of this road for a considerable distance our editorial friends, as a rule, favor the temperance cause.

Today the semi-annual meeting of the grand division of Sons of Temperance for Ohio meets at Akron. Massillon is represented by that staunch friend of the cause, Benjamin Raser.

Ricks have just received their new goods now is the time to get good bargains they have been bought cheap and will be sold equally cheap.

One goood thing is happening in behalf of the printer these days, and that is the prices of types are coming down from war rates. As almost everything else has been reduced from 15 to 20 and in some cases more than fifty per cent, it is no great thing for printing material to come down 10 or 11 per cent.

Candidates who wish to have their names announced for nomination can have a boost of that sort in this paper for $3.

More new carpets at Ricks' just received which they are bound to sell at low rates, now is a good time to buy cheap.

A CARD.—Whereas, Certain unscrupulous agents of competing insurance companies, without any just cause for reproach, and desiring to injure public confidence in the stability of the Union Central Life Insurance Company, having frequently made misstatements as to the manner, time and amount paid Mrs. Eliza J. Lyons, of a policy upon her husband, Volney R. Lyons, who died August 10th, 1869.

Massillon, Ohio, April 20th, 1870.

The whole amount due upon the policy held by my husband in the Union Central Life Insurance Co., was paid in cash, about sixty days before it was due by the terms of the policy, and that without discount, because of premature payment.

LIZZA J. EYONS.

Would it not be well for the gentlemanly agents of the Equitable and American to be more careful how they circulate false reports? The cause must be poor that needs to be supported by slanderous falsehoods regarding competing institutions. The Equitable and American are reliable companies, far more reliable than some of their agents.

NEWTON ANTHONY, Gen'l Agt.
JOEL CORE, Special Agent.

The last number of the Anti-Slavery Standard made its appearance on the 16th inst. Having so efficiently aided in the great reform of giving liberty and the franchise to the colored man, its work, in that direction is done, and the weekly paper ceases to exist. Hereafter it will be transformed into magazine shape and appear monthly, and will advocate reformatory measures having for their object the elevation of man and woman morally, socially and intellectually. We hope its efforts will be crowned with abundant success.

Some beautiful styles of spring shawls will be opened this week at Ricks' also a nice line of paisely, single and double shawls which we will be glad to show.

Look out for more piles of new goods in a short time, as Mr. G. P. Reed has gone east on a mission for purchasing the latest and most fashionable articles in the market.

The recent rains, although falling in a cold atmosphere, so cool in some places as to descend in the shape of snow, has had the effect to cover this part of the country with green pastures, and cause the grain fields to put on their richest colors. No complaint is yet made unfavorable to a good crop of fruit, as this is our year for that agreeable favor.

Jesse Duck, U. S. collector of revenue commenced a series of visits to his friends on the 25th and 26th insts, at this place.

About these days look out for numerous and severe attacks of spring fever, a malady which annually visits large numbers of humans when the sun commences pouring down his rays every day at a fearful rate. Some people get enough of it during these seasons of increasing warmth to last them a whole year.

After the storm the calm. Sunday and Monday of last week were rough, rainy, cold and windy. Since then a beautiful calm followed, and the weather has been most propitious for out door operations, of which the farmers took due advantage and everybody having gardens engaged in making them ready for usefulness.

Sarsaparillian RESOLVENT.

NEW PRINCIPLES OF CURE.

Of all Wastian, Scrofulous, and Eruptive Diseases of the Eyes, Nose, Mouth, Throat, Ears, Head, LUNGS, Kidneys, Bladder.

THE SKIN MADE PURE, CLEAR, SMOOTH, AND BEAUTIFUL.

DR. RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT Establishes a new principle of Cure of all Chronic diseases; and proves to the medical world that Consumption and other Scrofulous diseases are curable. This fact has been demonstrated in

ONE HUNDRED CASES OF CONFIRMED CONSUMPTION

where one Lung in over seventy cases was destroyed and dried up, and in over

569 CASES OF SUSPECTED CONSUMPTION.

DR. RADWAY, three years since, published to the world his analysis of the Blood in the several cases of CONSUMPTION, showing in every stage, that where tubercles become deposited in the Lungs and other organs, as in the Kidneys, Liver, Spleen, Mesenterial Intestines, establishing Consumption or those organs, the BLOOD is thin, weak pale, watery, and is deficient of such constituents as Fibrin Albumen, Phosphorus, and the rich red coloring discs of the Blood Corpuscles. In the absence of these constituents in the Blood, the Blood is exhausted of strength and nourishment, and wherever there is inflammation it deposits tubercles and decomposition. It has until the power to build up in relation its natural constituents, and Ulcers Sores, Tumors, Cancers, and Virulent Humors are formed, the presence of which causes inflammation, gathering, and consequent suppuration.

This reader, is the true cause of the formation of Tubercles and Consumption. Dr. RADWAY was the first to advance this theory of the cure of Consumption and its kindred diseases, and formed the RADWAY'S RESOLVENT to supply the Blood with such constituents it was deficient of, in those conditions of system, and to give it the nourishment and strength to hold its natural constituents in solution. Dr. RADWAY'S theory was published in England, France, Germany, and America, and was seized upon by the scientific men of both hemispheres. From this best medical books have been published by medical writers claiming to have discovered the cause of Consumption, but have failed to produce the remedy to cure. Dr. RADWAY was the first to advance this theory, and the first and only discoverer of a remedy that will cure. In RADWAY'S SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT the public have a remedial agent that will cure Consumption and all diseases of the LUNGS, BRONCHIAL, KIDNEYS, BLADDER, WOMB, THROAT, GLANDS, AND URINARY ORGANS.

In all Wasting Discharges, such as Involuntary Loss of Sperm, Emissions, Weakness of the Genital Glands, Leucharrœa, and all Uterine difficulties, Gravel, Lime Stone, Brick dust, Uric Acid, and Calculous Concretions, the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT is a positive cure. In Dropsy, Diabetes, unnatural Venereal, Syphilis in its many forms, it cures when all other Medicines fail.

EVERY DAY

an increase of flesh, weight, and strength is experienced. It is Pre-Eminent, Over Head and Shoulders. It is to the blood what oxygen is to the atmospheric air, it supplies the life principle. It swiftly removes from the surface all Spots, Blemishes, Pimples, Tetters, Rash, Flesh Worms, Sores, &c., imparting a to all.

CLEAR AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION

CERTIFICATE OF BEAUTY.

The following letter is from a highly-gifted lady, well known in the "circles of our best society":

"LAFAYETTE, Feb. 2d, 1869.

Special Notices.

Life is the Gift of God.

When we are sick this life is obscured, and a cloud, oppressed with humors. Experience has taught us certain means, which never fail for their removal. The child receives with his life the seeds of his death. It may take one, or a hundred years, before the seeds bear their sad fruit, but just as sure as the seeds of death ripen, life ceases. Purging is the grand safeguard, because that what fosters the seeds of death are taken away, expelled from the body.

Govern Yourselves by Experience.

My child, aged five years, had scarlet fever, and for five days had constant fever. By order of the doctor I gave her syrup of rhubarb; she took nearly a pint, but her bowels continued closed. On the fifth day the doctor said her bowels must be opened or she would be lost. I proposed Baandreth's pills; to this he would not consent—saying she was too weak. I consulted with my husband, and we concluded to give her three pills. In about four hours they operated filling half full a common chamber. After that operation the fever left her, and she rapidly recovered. Reference, 206 Clermont Avenue, Brooklyn.

B. A. FAHNESTOCK'S

VERMIFUGE.

It is now over forty years since this medicine was offered as a remedy for Worms, and from that time its reputation has steadily increased until at the present day it is almost universally acknowledged throughout nearly all parts of the world to be the sovereign remedy. Worm Confections, made more for the purpose of pleasing the palate than of overcoming the disease, have been manufactured all over the country; but their short lease of life is nearly exhausted, and B. A Fahnestock's Vermifuge continues to grow in favor daily. Children often look pale and sickly from no other cause than worms, and sparrow grass used frequently the result of these hidden sappers and miners.

When they are irritable and feverish, sometimes craving food and eating ravenously, again refusing wholesome diet tossing restlessly in sleep, moaning and grinding the teeth, then be assured these symptoms are indications of worms.

Uneasiness and pain in the abdomen, with swelling and hardness, are generally attendant upon the presence of these hidden sappers and miners.

A gradual wasting away or emaciation of the flesh is one of the most common attendants upon worms. They absorb the animal juices, and destroy the nourishment imparted to the stomach by wholesome diet, thereby occasioning a variable appetite and a strong desire for indigestible food.

The stomach has, undoubtedly, a very great sympathy with other parts of the body. This is the case with respect to the irritation produced by worms, especially those existing in the stomach itself. They give rise to many other diseases, and put his system sadder incredibly without being aware of the cause.

Many a helpless child has been laid in the grave, when the disease which caused its death has been entirely misunderstood, and when worms have really been the cause. It has been proved beyond cavil that worms exist in the human system from earliest infancy, therefore parents—especially mothers, who are more constantly with their children, cannot be too observing of the first symptoms of worms, for so surely as they exist, can they be safely and speedily removed from the youthful victim, by the timely use of B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge.

Physicians do not hesitate to recommend it and use it in their practice, and many of the most eminent of the profession, from all parts of the country, testify to its uniform success. In fact, it never fails. It has frequently been given to children as a safe purgative, not suspecting the cause of the illness, and large quantities of worms were discharged and immediate relief afforded.

Great caution must be used by every purchaser, to be his own judge in one sense, and to examine every bottle he buys of it. The simple name of FAHNESTOCK is not sufficient. Be not misled closely and carefully to see that the initials are B. A FAHNESTOCK, and be satisfied with nothing else.

OCCUPATIONAL AILMENTS.

Fresh pure air is a vitalizing elixir. ever is debarred by circumstances from unrestricted access to this invaluable, but powerful stimulant, needs a medicinal invigorant of some kind. The great object should be to choose the best. Popularity is a pretty good guarantee of merit in this scrutinizing and intelligent age, and tried by this criterion Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stands first among the invigorating and regulating medicines of the present day. To the wants of persons engaged in indoor employments, especially in crowded factories where even with the best possible ventilation the atmosphere is always in some degree polluted, this salubrious vegetable tonic is peculiarly adapted. The nature of the ingredients is no mystery. It consists of an absolutely pure diffusive stimulant, tinctured—or rather surcharged—with the fluid extract of canaan roots and barks and herbs. The pharmacopœa has its tinctures, but what are they? The juice of only a single root or bark or plant is present in each. Not one of them combines the three properties of a tonic, an alterative, and an aperient. All these elements are blended in the bitters: nor are the sum of its medicinal recommendations. It is also a blood depurent and an antispasmodic.

The baleful effect which air that has been partially exhausted of its oxygen by frequent breathing produces on the vital organization, is notorious, and when to this devitalized atmosphere is superadded the mephitic vapor of hot air furnaces, it becomes deleterious and depressing in the extreme. To enable the system to bear up, even for a hours each day against the debilitating influence of a vitiated atmosphere, a wholesome tonic and alterative is urgently required. This grand desideratum is supplied in Hostetter's Bitters, which as a strength-sustaining, health protecting agent has no rival either among officinal or advertised medicines. 4t

DYSPEPSIA.

THE

Medical Properties Possessed by

BELTZHOOVER'S

Dyspeptic Bitters

Are fully attested by the certificates of well known gentlemen who have tested their virtues. Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Ague, General debility, and similar diseases are totally eradicated from the system by their use, while as a blood purifier and appetizer, they are unapproachable.

Dr S Beltzhoover, Scully & Co., the proprietors of these bitters, are manufacturing them extensively at their establishment, No. 77 Third avenue, Pittsburgh, and are prepared to fill all orders that may be sent to them.

At this season of the year the human system is generally in a debilitated condition and a tonic is necessary for the preservation of health. The Dyspeptic bitters are strongly recommended for their tonical virtues, and many persons are deriving great benefit from their use. These bitters are the best in the market, and are being generally adopted by our citizens.

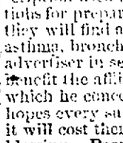
HALL'S

VEGETABLE SICILIAN

HAIR RENEWER



RESTORES GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL COLOR, PROMOTES ITS GROWTH AND IS A SPLENDID DRESSING. TRY ONE BOTTLE AND THICKEN UP THE THIN LOCKS!

Is the only perfected and scientifically prepared preparation of its kind ever offered to the public, and has no competitor in merit. By its use GRAY HAIR is soon restored to its original youthful color and brilliancy, which is so much admired by all. Persons whose hair is thin or falling out will, by the use of our Renewer, soon see its good effects, as, by its tonic and stimulating properties the hair glands will be incited and the hair grow thick and strong again. In cases of Baldness it will create a new growth unless the follicles are destroyed. It is cooling, and allays all itching and irritation of the scalp. It does not stain the skin as do dyes, but makes the scalp white and clean. As a DRESSING it is the best and most economical preparation in the world, as its effects last so much longer. Send for our Treatise on the hair, free to all, by mail.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

To Consumptives.

The advertiser, having been restored to health in a few weeks by a very simple remedy, after having suffered several years with a severe lung affliction and that dread disease, consumption, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers his means of cure. To all who desire it he will send a copy of the prescription used (free of charge) with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a sure cure for consumption, asthma, bronchitis, &c. The object of the advertiser in sending the prescription is to benefit the afflicted, and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable; and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing. Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings Co. N. Y.—307 1y

PRETTY STANZAS.

Leaf by leaf the roses fall,
Drop by drop the springs run dry;
One by one beyond recall,
Summer beauties fade and die:
But the roses bloom again,
And the spring will gush anew,
In the pleasant April rain
And the summer sun and dew.

So in the hours of deepest gloom,
When the springs of gladness fail,
And the roses in the bloom
Droop like maidens wan and pale,
We shall find some hope that lies
Like a silent gem apart,
Hidden far from careless eyes
In the garden of the heart.

Some sweet hope to gladness wed,
That will spring afresh and new,
When grief's winter shall have fled,
Giving place to rain and dew—
Some sweet hope that breathes of spring,
Through the weary, weary time,
Budding forth its blossoming,
In the spirit's glorious clime.

EXTEMPORANEOUS PREACHING.

In one of the lower counties of Maryland there flourished in the palmy days of the peculiar institution, an old darkey preacher, who used no notes, and prided himself on his extemporaneous preaching. His white brethren called him doctor—a title which he accepted, of course, with ludicrous gravity. At a camp meeting which the doctor was holding, one of these friends gave him, as a text, this passage in the Psalms of David: 'Wake, psaltery and harp; I myself will arise right early.' The doctor adjusted his spectacles, and read:

'Wake, peasle-tree and harp; I myself will arouse right early.'

The Doctor went on to explain that Moses was a very early riser; and that he had a peasle tree which grew near his window; and that he was wont to rise mighty airly and hang out his harp on the peasle tree, wid psalms.—Drawer, Harper's Magazine.

The problem of plowing newly-cleared land with American plows in the valley of the Rio Grande has been solved and the days of the old Mexican plow are numbered.

There is a story of a countryman who employed a carman to carry his baggage to a hotel in New York.

'What place is that opposite? he asked.

'A porter house.'

'Who lives this side?'

'An apothecary?'

'Who lives on the other side?'

'An undertaker.'

'What building is that in the rear?'

'The Tombs.'

'Go on, carman, I won't stop here; a grogshop in front, an apothecary shop on one side, and an undertaker's on the other, and the tombs in the rear. Take me to the cars. I will return to the country.

HOME TESTIMONY.

Winchester, O., July 25, 1859.

Dr. C. W. Roback—Dear Sir: For the benefit of suffering humanity permit me to say that I have been selling your Scandinavian blood purifier and blood pills extensively, and that they give general satisfaction I use them in my family and find that they are the very best medicines I have ever used in cases where the disease originates from impurity of the blood. They are healing and strengthening. I would therefore recommend them to all persons afflicted with chronic diseases or wasting of flesh, or any derangement of the digestive organs. Yours respectfully, Ross ATTISON,
Agent for the above medicines.

The whitest, worse looking hair, resumes its youthful beauty, by using Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer. Try it.

MRS. ALLEN'S

Hair Restorer & Zylobalsamum

Are so uniformly grateful and beneficial, that they are with justice called the natural strengtheners of the human hair. They are two entirely separate and distinct preparations, not to be used together at one time.

Mrs. Allen's Hair Restorer

Never fails to satisfy the most refined and cultivated. A guarantee goes with every bottle, that it will quickly restore gray or white hair to its original youthful beauty, gloss and color; after its use a few times the hair will grow thicker and stronger. It will stop its falling and induce a healthy and luxuriant growth. It is an exquisite hair dressing, agreeable, harmless and healthy. Entirely different from most other preparations for the hair, its composition and ingredients are nourishing, giving life and vigor to the Roots.

Mrs. Allen's Zylobalsamum

This exquisite preparation is free from any sediment, and is a toilet treasure. The urgent want of a simple Hair Dressing, for the youth of both sexes, first induced the manufacture of the Zylobalsamum, and the sale of it is perfectly immense, not only in this country, but in Europe.

EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS.

"Your Zylobalsamum is used by every member, young and old, of our family, and we consider it invaluable. Should any gray hairs appear, we shall try your Hair Restorer, which we hear very highly spoken of."

"Father and mother use your Hair Restorer, and are delighted with it. It soon restored their gray locks to their youthful color, but daughters and son still find in the Zylobalsamum all their hair requires."

From the Principal of one of our large Female Seminaries: "Your Zylobalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."

$30 Hinkley Knitting Machi.

The most perfect machine yet invented. Will widen and narrow, turn a heel, or shape the toe. It will knit plain or ribbed. It will knit stockings, drawers, shirts, hoods, comforters, mittens. It is cheap simple and durable. It sets up its own work, uses but one needle, and requires no adjusting whatever. It will do the same work that the Lamb machine will do, and costs less than half as much, and has not the tenth part of the machinery to get out of order. Circulars and samples mailed free on application. Agents wanted. All machines guaranteed.

THIS is no patent medicine humbug, gotten up to dupe the ignorant and credulous, nor is it represented as being "composed of rare and precious substances brought from the four corners of the earth, carried seven times across the Great Desert of Saharah on the backs of fourteen camels, and brought across the Atlantic Ocean on two Ships." It is a simple, mild, soothing Remedy, a perfect Specific for Catarrh and "Cold in the head," also for offensive Breath. Loss or Impairment of the Sense of smell, Taste or Hearing, Watering or Weak Eyes, Pain or Pressure in the Head, when caused, as they all not unfrequently are, by the violence of Catarrh.

We offer, in good faith, a standing Reward of $500 for a case of Catarrh that we cannot cure.

For Sale By Most Druggists Everywhere. Price 50 cts.

Sent by mail, post paid, on receipt of Sixty Cents. Four packages for $2,00 or 1 dozen for $5,00.
